Behind the scenes on Pinder's calendar!

Lucy shot her 2014 calendar and invited us along!

→ YES, IT'S July and yes, this is the first 2014 calendar story of the year. But when the star is Lucy Pinder and she's kindly invited you along to the shooting of next year's dates-plus-pictures spectacular, you'd be soft in the head to refuse. So here is a saucy selection of works-in-progress for a calendar that looks like it could win a hatful of awards. Nuts' Calendar Of The Year, for one!

Lucy says: "This '50s bikini was my favourite. We just let my stylist bring what she likes. I'm lazy. I just say: 'Tell me what to do!'"

The Army were yet to get back to Lucy about her camouflage pants idea

Nuts NEWS

Lucy says: "It looks like we're in some gorgeous, exotic location, but we actually shot it in Earls Court in London. We just picked the hottest day of the year! Doesn't it look like we're abroad?"

Lucy says: "Being on the blow-up swan was great fun, but out of shot someone is teetering on the edge of the pool, holding it still, so I didn't fall in or drift off!"

Turn over for more sexy pics of Lucy

Lucy says: "This is an American Apparel cossie. The green Vans on my feet were actually the stylist's. I said, 'I want to wear those,' so I nicked them!"

Lucy loaded
another slingshot

Lucy says: "Ah! The hammock! Getting on and off it wasn't the most elegant move I've ever pulled off. The minute you get in it, you sort of swirl round. That could have ended badly. I could have swung to the floor and broken my nose! The danger! The danger of it all!"

Lucy says: "The calendar company decides which pictures go with which month. We have to make sure that we have 13 great shots and then they decide which picture goes where. We just try to get sexy shots."

Dam! That's a lot of water!

Chinese river is given its annual epic spruce. Tourists gather to watch it happen!

WORDS: RORY BUCKENHAM

→ THE YELLOW
River in China's Henan Province has increasingly been plagued by a growing amount of silt and sediment. So, a bit like blowing an obstruction through a hose pipe, authorities simply purge the dam at the Xiaolangdi Reservoir, at a rate of 2,600 cubic metres per second. Which looks like this!

It's such a big deal in the area that tourists actually turn up in droves to watch the sight of millions of gallons of water flying impressively through the air. Beats chugging down smog and falling through sink holes, we imagine.

WHOOSH!

God followed through

GTA V secrets revealed!

17 classified facts from Rockstar's new opus!

→ LAST WEEK, the world stopped for four minutes and 49 seconds when a new GTA V trailer dropped onto the internets with an epic thud. It was brimming with info, sly details and Easter eggs. So, we jabbed the pause button and gleaned some awesome secrets for this mega game, which is due out on 17 September on PS3 and Xbox 360.

YOU CAN PILOT A FIGHTER JET!

This jet buzzing this chap clearly has a multiplayer gamertag (the placeholder "GTAdev11"), showing you'll be able to zoom around in a jet in multiplayer.

REALITY TV!

Swathed across a downtown skyscraper is a three-piece ad for reality show Fame Or Shame, showing regular Joes demonstrating dodgy showbiz skills.

HALO MOCKING!

Look closely at the costumed berks in Vinewood's version of Hollywood's Walk Of Fame – they're dressed suspiciously like a certain Master Chief.

GIRLY MAGS!

Psycho character Trevor has some "toilet reading" in his crapper – a Playboy-like girly mag called Pussycat. And a box of laxatives called "Lax The Max".

DOWNTOWN DONG BANK!

Here we see a helicopter buzzing a bank headquarter's skyscraper. But take a closer look – the bank's called "Schlongberg Sachs". Sweet.

LINGERIE BRAND ADS!

Advertised on a huge billboard is an advert for Los Santos lingerie brand Gussét Lingerie. Classy. (And good use of the accent!)

WEED STORE!

The store where Michael buys his "medical marijuana" is called Smoke On The Water, a nice nod to the doobie-loving metal band Deep Purple.

GRUPPE SECHS!

A security van hit in a heist carries the logo "Gruppe Sechs", German for troubled security company Group 6. Its tag line is "Putting U in secure!"

YOU CAN INVEST IN AMMU★NATION!

Heist money can be laundered in company stocks in, for instance, GTA's trusty weapons and ammo supplier in the "Bawsaq" (geddit?) stock exchange.

AND BUY PROPERTY!

You can also invest in property in Los Santos, like this "Unique apartment overlooking the marina. Hello sailor!" Their description.

UPGRADE WEAPONS!

The hardware in Franklin's weapons wheel have what looks like two upgrade slots. This carbine, for instance, features a grip and extended clip.

VANGELICO JEWELLERS!

Your plans end in a jewellery store robbery. Called Vangelico, in San Andreas' Rockford Hills, it's a version of actual Beverly Hills jeweller David Orgell.

1,000 CAR MODS!

There'll be over 1,000 mods available for your motors. So cars will be less throwaway in this GTA – you'll grab a motor, and lavish cash on it to make it yours.

IT TRACKS TIME PLAYED!

In the bottom right-hand corner is a timer, showing how long you've played. Note: these are 83 GTA in-game days, not actual, real-life days. Probably.

SPORTS ARE HUGE!

Sports races can go on for ages! This race has been running for over nine minutes! Plus, you can immerse yourself in golf, yoga, tennis, hunting, base jumping...

EXCLUSIVE!

A quick word with Idris Elba!

The Pacific Rim star on big robots, wearing Lacoste clobber and playing James Bond → Hello Idris! So, talk us through the story of your new movie Pacific Rim. It does sound a bit silly...

The story behind it is that there are these aliens that are actually connected by DNA to dinosaurs. Facing extinction, they went to the Pacific perimeter where they became stronger, bigger, faster, until they decided, "Hey, it's time to go back!" And when they get there, they say, "Oh my God! All these homo sapiens! Where did they come from?" And so they decide, "We'll get rid of them!" So the homo sapiens build these beautiful machines – these robots that look like them and are manned by them, but are super powerful. And so we experience the war between these two factions.

That's as clear as mud! But it's a proper blockbuster, right?
Let's not mess around, this film is a piece of art. The scale of the movie! Understand you're looking at robots that are 40 storeys high and Kaiju [monsters] that are probably 60 storeys high. You really wanna soak that up on a big IMAX screen so when you leave the cinema you have to make sure there are no Kaiju coming because you feel like you're still in that world.

What drew you to the movie, and your silly-named character Stacker Pentecost?

The script was good and pretty different. I hadn't done anything like that before. Obviously, [director] Guillermo del Toro is a good film-maker. That was the main reason – I just saw an opportunity to work with him. Pentecost is a pretty interesting character and I felt like I could bring something to life with him.

Did you and the other cast members train together to bond, or anything like that?

There was a little bit of training, but not so much for me. My character is sort of isolated from the rest of the gang. But we did see each other on the set and it's a very big, eclectic cast. Everyone was really good and fun. We'd also get very serious in Guillermo's presence and about what he wants. It was quite a serious, gritty work environment. But yeah, everyone was really cool and really colourful.

We heard that filming the scenes in the cockpits of the fighting machines was hard. Did you suffer for your art?
It was just really tough and very uncomfortable, and I was doing things I've never done in my life. It looks fantastic on screen, but from a performer's point of view, just being strapped into a harness and pulled about left and right was really tough work.

"How much? Twenty quid, topless.
Fifty, fully nude"

In the movie, your character famously roars, "Cancel the apocalypse!" That's impossible, though, surely?

The legendary line! I remember reading it and thinking, "Wow, that has to be delivered!" I felt a lot of pressure on that line! And I knew it would be in the trailer. It's the one tagline for the film.

You were in Prometheus last year and now this. Can we officially call you a geek now?
It's not a genre that I definitely followed closely, not as much as I'd like to, say. It was definitely interesting to be in a big sci-fi film and see how they make these sort of movies. I think that Pacific Rim is going to be quite a landmark film in terms of the evolution of sci-fi movies. It's massive. So, I'm definitely a fan of being part of this particular film. I think now that I see how they make them, I've become a bit more attuned to it.

Your major breakthrough role was as Stringer Bell in The Wire. You must love that show?

The Wire set me up at a time when my career was going nowhere. It's probably one of the greatest TV shows ever. It's epic, honest and it was different from anything else.

You've become a bit of a style icon. Did your mum dress you as a nipper?

When I was a kid I was a right East Londoner – smart Lacoste shirts with a little crocodile on

"The Wire set me up when I was going nowhere"

Idris Elba

my chest! My grandad was a very stylish man – he was a member of the police force and used to wear some nice uniforms and all of that. I love looking at my grandad's old pictures of how he dressed and that. He was proper stylish.

The internets told us you're going to be the next James Bond. Tell us that's right!
It'd be lovely if it was, but it's just a rumour. I'm not pushing myself to be the next Bond, but lots of people are saying, "You'd be a great one, we'd love to see that!" And that's a great feeling. He's a national treasure!

● Pacific Rim is in cinemas nationwide now.

Jet pilot shows off!

Cool jet! Cool flares! Cool pic!

→ THIS IS essentially an everyday thing if you're a fighter pilot – practising firing infra-red counter measures to avoid being hit by missiles – but by golly, it looks cool. We'd could never tire of pics like these, in this case snaps of a Russian Su-27 jet at the International Maritime Defence Show in St Petersburg. If this pilot didn't get his Jimmy waxed after this, the ladyfolk of Russia need to have a serious look at themselves.

Close up, human egg fertilisation was awesome

TENT UP!

Campsite in the clouds!

Dopes on a rope make a camp 420ft in the air!

→ BUILT ON the ground, then hoisted up over 420ft into the sky, this "mid air campsite" was erected between mountains in Moab, Utah. It was home for one night for 11 slackliners who christened the camp "Space Thong", due to its resemblance to a G-string.

Next morning they simply awoke, strapped parachutes to their backs and stepped off their improvised camp. The impossibly cool jerks.

The NSA closed in on Snowden's
hiding place

The great escape!

Impala avoids becoming dinner by nipping into a passing car!

→ NOTHING WOULD ruin your day more if you're an impala skipping around South Africa's Kruger National Park than becoming din-dins for a passing cheetah. Hats off to this quick-thinking deer then, who, when finding itself on the menu of two hungry cheetahs, leapt into a passing 4x4 full of tourists and waited the big cats out, before making good its escape. While the cheetahs presumably sighed and ordered up a Domino's.

Sadly, all landed safely

"Car couldn't help but grin as Kelly Brook approached, keys in hand"

Killer Mexican track ninja!

Drool over the Vuhl 05. It's a 695kg, 152mph, £60k, impossibly cool track weapon!

- Meet Mexico's new supercar, the Vuhl 05. It's the work of two Mexican brothers with the backing of the Mexican Government.
- The main ingredients are a race car-style honeycomb aluminium monocoque chassis, with front and rear suspension bolted onto tube steel subframes. There's a deformable crash box in the front nose to save your legs in a shunt.

- The amigos at Vuhl claim that it has three-times more torsional rigidity than a Lotus Elise. Which means a) it will have more comfortable on-road suspension, and b) it will be an all-conquering corner destroyer on circuits.

WORDS: JONNY SMITH

"Just enough room for a Domino's? Perfect!"

- On top of the chassis sit body panels made out of reinforced plastic for lightness. Optional carbon fibre panels would shave another 25kg off an already skinny 695kg. That makes it lighter than KTM's X-bow, but a smidge heavier than the Ariel Atom.
- From the squashed VW Scirocco front end to the frowning Koenigsegg rear,

the Vuhl's lines really work.
There are no doors, no roof
and not a lot of in-car entertainment, aside from that turbocharged 2.0-litre motor behind your seat.

- Borrowed from the Ford Focus ST, the Ecoboost engine's power has been raised to 285bhp and it uses the same Ford six-speed manual gearbox. No paddleshift nonsense. And no ABS, no traction control and no power steering either.

- The Vuhl is hairy-palmed analogue driving, with nothing but you, a carbon fibre bucket chair, four wheels and a turbo-sniffing motor to chase the road with. It'll do 152mph – which should feel like Mach 2 with such a shallow windscreen – and gets to 62mph in 3.7.

- Best of all, its suspension and steering are being developed on UK roads so this could give Caterham, Ariel and Lotus nightmares. It's as basic as a festival toilet, but it'll cost around £60k. Count us in.

'My leg looked like a lump of raw meat!'

Motorcyclist gets a multiple mobile motorway mangling!

→ WANT TO know how to get a leg that looks like a split sofa with a load of purple stuffing spilling out of it? Well, unfortunately, the quickest way is via a horrendous motorcycle accident, as Damen Barnard, a 20-year-old payroll company employee from Maidenhead, can attest.

"Thankfully, I have no real recollection of the accident," Damen reveals to Nuts. "All I know is it was 8.30 in the morning on the M4 and apparently, I was trying to change lanes when a car driver had the same idea at the same time. But I've been told it wasn't my fault at all."

"I was hit by three cars in total, and suffered a broken leg, as well as suffering arm and head injuries. It was pretty grim, they tell me, but I'm lucky to be alive."

The picture shows Damen's leg at the point in his recovery when a lump of muscle was removed from his other leg and grafted onto his injured one, along with a skin graft.

Damen is now having physiotherapy to learn how to get mobile again. But the question is: will he ever get back on a motorbike?

"Maybe in the future. I think my family will kill me if I do it any time soon!"

LETTER OF THE WEEK!

I want to pull a pint-puller!

The barmaid at my local is a real flirt, always giving me a cheeky wink and making innuendo. Is she just flirting because of her job or is she into me? I'm too shy to ask her out.

HARRY Bishop's Stortford

If she didn't crack a few head jokes while pouring a pint she wouldn't be much of a barmaid – but she could well fancy you. Judge her age and looks against yourself. If she's in reach, ask her out!

Help me get the head rush!

When girls "go south" on me, I can never make it to the end. Is there anything I can be doing to "bring things to a head"?

JOHN via email

Her sex needs are no yolk!

My girlfriend has been bought some "love eggs". I have no idea what they are or what they do, but I'm worried that they might end up replacing me. Help, please!

DANNY Leicester

Who bought them for her? I'd immediately be suspicious. Love eggs are vibrating balls you can insert inside the vagina. They can't replace you – women desire and need those deep, penetrative thrusts – eggs are merely foreplay fun. But you need to know who bought them.

Oh, John, for a start, don't be worried about this – it's actually quite a common occurrence. Make sure the foreplay you're both engaging in beforehand is passionate – explore each other with your hands first to get the blood pumping. And remember, there are many lubricants available on the high street that are a great way to speed things up.

She's put a ring on it!

The girl I've been seeing is getting a piercing in a very "personal" place. She already has a few around her body, but I can't help thinking this is a step too far. Why does she even want that doing? Should I say something about it?

ANTHONY Edinburgh

Well, once the piercing heals up she'll find her orgasms have doubled in intensity – which is great for both of you. You could even think about getting one on your bits! The clitoris is a wondrous place, Anthony – don't mess with it. Accept it!

- If you've got something to ask Danni, just email her at thelesbian@nutsmagazine.co.uk or write to her at the usual Nuts address on p66.

The WORLD'S END PUB CRAWL SURVIVAL GUIDE!

'Cos a pint with Simon Pegg and Nick Frost doesn't have to be the end of the world!

A PUB crawl can be fraught with peril, even if the world isn't facing total annihilation like it is in Simon Pegg's hilarious comedy The World's End. An impending apocalypse is just one of the many pitfalls that can befall you but if there's one thing we know about here at Nuts, it's pubs and the safe transition between them. So here's our calamity-free crawl guide to help you.

1 DRESS FOR THE OCCASION There's no point going on a crawl in your Sunday best – you need to be presentable (for the ladies) yet comfortable (for the pints). Favour a simple polo shirt and loose-fitting jeans or, for the ultimate in drinking comfort, how about a nice and cosy onesie!

2 STICK TO YOUR BUDGET The last thing you want to do is lose all your fizzy-pop money on a fruit machine in the first pub you visit. So just let strangers do it instead, while you advise them over and over again to "nudge the plums" and then have a good chuckle.

3 DON'T GET TOO COMFORTABLE It's a pub crawl – you don't want to end up stuck in one place just because the barmaid looks like Emma Glover! Go up to the bar and say, "Can you introduce me to the landlord's wife? I'd like to have a crack at her." To the landlord. That should get you moving.

4 BE SMART Your phone, wallet and keys are exactly the things you might lose, so avoid this by keeping them all in a polythene bag tethered to your ankle like Tim Robbins in The Shawshank Redemption. This will also keep them clean if you need to take a tinkle behind a bottle bank.

5 THAT TATTOO PARLOUR IS NOT YOUR FRIEND

On such an average multi-pub big night out like in The World's End, your local tattooist may seem like your new best friend, but keep moving, or wake up with "Prepare to get annihilated" etched on your bum cheek forever.

6 STAY NOURISHED There are plenty of new apps that will help you indicate to an alert bartender that you require sustenance at short notice, such as the Crisp Klaxon, the Peanut Alarm and the Pork Scratching Horn. Or maybe we're imagining them.

7 AVOID PHYSICAL CONFRONTATION You can steer clear of A&E by simply avoiding what we in the pub crawl game call "the three Fs" – don't Fight, don't Flirt with your mate's younger sister and don't set Fire to each other's trousers.

8 MAKE SURE YOU HAVE THE NUMBER OF A LOCAL CAB FIRM As in any, ahem, informative piece of investigative journalism such as this where lists are involved, there's always one mind-numbingly boringly sensible suggestion. Well, guess what? This is it.

JO PARKER

It's New Babe Jo!

Meet our 22-year-old blonde cutie from Kent!

JO PARKER

“Rosie Jones is naturally beautiful!”

Hi Jo! How does it feel to be in Nuts? It's wicked. Nuts is the best men's magazine. I feel so lucky to be here. Big time, here I come!

Are you enjoying the shoot?
It's great. This house we're shooting in is gorgeous!

What other modelling work have you done?

I did some high street fashion modelling. I've also done a few TV adverts for make-up and stuff, but nothing this sexy.

How would you introduce yourself to the readers?

I love animals and I'm sporty. I'm really hyper all the time, and I do personal training too.

What's your favourite thing about Nuts?

The boobs! Ha-ha! It's the first thing I look at when I pick up the magazine.

Who are your fave Nuts babes?

Rosie Jones. She's naturally beautiful, and so down to earth. I like Emma Glover, too.

What sort of thing do you look for in a bloke?

A guy has to be taller than me. That's not as easy as it sounds, because I'm 5ft 10.

What's your best asset?

My lovely bum.

If you could do any sexy shoot, what would it be?

I'd love to do something with David Beckham. I'd love to do all kinds of things with David Beckham, but we can start with a photo shoot on a beach.

What are your hidden talents?

I used to play football when I was younger. I was an ace striker. I had a great first touch and I scored a lot of goals.

What's the most surprising thing about you?

I love travelling. I'm going to Brazil to stay in a shanty town soon. I can't wait.

DYNAMO

Vs the Nuts Question Bucket!

The awesome illusionist on levitating for the Queen and playing for Bradford City!

→ The rules are simple. We fill our bucket with ridiculous questions, then a famous type picks them out at random and has to answer them!

Hello Dynamo! Does anyone call you by your real name – Steven?

The only people who call me Steven are my mum and my Nana, when I'm in trouble. When they say it in that tone of voice [does stern voice], "Steven!" I know I've done something very wrong.

You're everywhere at the moment. Where's the weirdest place you've seen your face?

On the side of a Pepsi bottle or can. They've signed me up to be the new face of Pepsi Max. I'm the next Beyoncé!

You go all over the world with Magician Impossible – is it just an excuse for a free holiday?

Ha-ha! It's not, but we do get to go to some amazing places. This series we go to Ibiza, South Africa, New York and even the glitzy city of London.

When you retire, will you write a book saying how you did all these spooky shenanigans?

I don't think I'll ever retire. I've got the best job in the world. Hopefully I'll be able to do magic for the rest of my life.

Do you ever wonder if you might actually be Harry Potter?

No, but I played Quidditch against him once.

We're never sure whether that's a real beard or not.

"Pick a card, any card. I bet it says Nuts on it..."

Is it just part of the act?

Today it is because it's all gone a bit out of control. Because I'm always filming, I have to try to keep continuity. The other day, I didn't have time to shave so now I have to look scruffy.

Would you let Nuts have a go at sawing you in half?

Er, I'll try anything once.

If you were knighted and the Queen said, "Arise, Sir Dynamo!" would you literally levitate for her?

Definitely. I met Prince Charles the other day and did a trick on him. I'm not sure what trick I'd do for the Queen though. Is it bad to make the crown jewels disappear?

Would you give up magic to trick people into thinking you're an ace footballer and then play for Bradford City?

I wouldn't necessarily give up all the magic. I'm not the best footballer in the world, but I'd love to have shares in Bradford or to be the owner. That would be cool. I'm hoping they can work some magic and get into the Championship.

Do people come up and show you their naff tricks in the street?

They do. Especially in bars and nightclubs when they're drunk. I get lots of strange requests, too. They say, "Can you make my lunch break start again?" or "Can you make my wife disappear?" After the first series of Magician impossible, I had to get escorted out of the Westfield shopping centre by eight security guards and two police escorts.

Who'd win in a wizard-off between yourself, Gandalf, Derren Brown and Sabrina the Teenage Witch?

Sabrina the Teenage Witch, I think. She's scary. And she's got that talking cat as well. They frighten me, cats.

Is there a Mrs Dynamo?
There's a lovely lady out there, yes.

Is it hard to find people to play poker with?

People won't play poker with me. I've met a few people who want to go in cahoots and fleece people, but I've promised that I'll only use my powers for good...

"Why kick the bucket when you can head it?"

Red Nose Day has really gotten out of hand this year

Have Dynamo FC In Zimbabwe stolen your name?

No, but I wish they'd let me have their Twitter account. They're @dynamo so I've had to settle for @dynamomagician.

"Making it float?
Nah, I'd just dropped it"

You usually wear a hoody. Are you out to give hoodies a good name? If people were causing trouble in suits, they'd be called Suities. You can't objectify people by what they wear.

'BEING A MOBSTER WAS A LIFE OF EXCITEMENT... BUT I SAW THINGS THAT TURNED MY STOMACH'

AS THE MAN WHO RAN A NOTORIOUS GAMBLING DEN, SAL POLISI
WITNESSED THE RISE AND FALL OF THE MAFIA IN NEW YORK. HERE, HE TELLS NUTS HOW HE LIVED TO TELL THE STORY...

MAFIA MONEY MAN

Hello Sal. Can you tell us how you became involved with the Mafia?

Sure. I had an uncle involved in the Mob. I thought back then that it was a golden, glamorous age and I wanted to be a part of it. My grandfather was involved with New York's Colombo crime family and by the late '60s, I was running an illegal gambling operation. Of course, by 1972, The Godfather came along and that gave the lifestyle even more glamour. For a 27-year-old guy like me, it was impossible to resist.

Tell us about your gambling den, The Sinatra Club.

I decided to open up a club to make some money, and went into business with a hitman called Dominic from the Cataldo family. Ours was the only joint in town where the Five Families could mix with each other – although the rule was no guns. This was at the time of the war, remember. The bathrooms had black lights and in the rear there was an exit, just in case the cops came in through the front.

Is it true some of GoodFellas is modelled on your club?

Well, I knew Henry Hill [played by Ray Liotta in the film] and the guys he worked with very well. In fact, I was in prison with him... There were parallels with that film. Look at Dominic Cataldo, he was one of the worst. He'd been whacking business partners for years and he became more and more paranoid and bloodthirsty. Dom used to do hits on guys right in the back of his restaurant, put them in the trunk of his car and drive them up to Boot Hill.

Are all mobsters rich? Or is that just a myth?

Are you kidding me? We had all sorts of gambling in that club – which none of the mob families could resist – and I went through millions of dollars. I was making £50,000 a week. And you've gotta remember, we weren't paying taxes on it. We had all the best girls, too – just like the ones in your magazine. Ha-ha!

Er, thank you! What did you spend the money on?

I didn't do drugs, so I spent it all on women, 11 sports cars, a racetrack, Rolexes and the high life. I also gave my kids all that they wanted.

Notorious mobster John Gotti used to hang out at your club – what can you tell us about him?

We were good friends, John Gotti and me. When he first came into The Sinatra Club, he never had any money and we would lend him 50 bucks to play cards. However, what he did have in spades was charisma. Everyone knew him – he knew everyone and he upheld the old-style principles of honour and respect. By 1980, he'd taken a leap up through the ranks and before you know it, he'd become Boss of Bosses.

Did you ever witness anything that really terrified you?

Sure. In the '70s and '80s, the mob changed because of drugs, and the ideas of family and respect were lost. I was involved in a lot of brutal assignments, I beat up witnesses and did a lot of things that make me wince. I witnessed vicious beatings and was involved in almost every possible crime but murder and child abuse.

Do any incidents stand out?

One particular job turned my stomach more than anything. It wasn't to whack a guy but to "participate" in a murder. For my initiation into the Colombo family, I was ordered to dig a grave. I drove to the Hamptons and found a spot on a quiet part of the beach. It took me most of the night to dig a hole six feet long and six feet deep. It was as close as I wanted to be to that world of death and violence.

You've been involved in many heists – what was the most audacious one?

When it came to robbing, I had an addiction. I loved nothing more than ripping off banks and trucks. The most audacious was when we ripped-off an airport and dropped a million dollars of luxury watches – I can't imagine how much it would be worth today. How did I do it? Well, it was an "acting" job. I drove into the high value cargo area in a truck with switched plates, talked my way in and just loaded it up. The key was to lock up afterwards – it bought time for us to make our escape.

How did you feel about your life of crime?

I was never terrified of danger, in fact I was always running to it. Mine was a life of excitement, but you always knew that the guys you were running with would kill you in a second and drop your body off in the next area code. I eventually realised that it was all changing, getting darker, and guys started doing unsanctioned hits over drugs and money, left and right. And you know what? After a time, even gold doesn't shine as much when you get up close.

Finally, then, you wound up in witness protection after turning your back on the mob. How scary was that?

Witness protection was a challenge, I was a New Yorker in Texas and I stuck out like a sore thumb! I had two names, two social security numbers, and it was a pain in the ass. However, there was a hit out on me because I'd testified against John Gotti... Thankfully, no one really came looking for me. I started using my real name after Gotti died and nowadays, the young guys couldn't care about an old guy like me.

● The Sinatra Club is out now from Mainstream Publishing

● In New York City, there are currently only 25 FBI agents to combat Mafia-related crime.

● Last week, nine members of the Bonanno crime family were arrested for "old-school mob activity", the 158-page indictment listing crimes ranging from extortion to trading in prescription drugs.

● It was revealed earlier this year that Mafia "capo" (boss) Gregory Scarpa Sr struck a deal with the FBI that saw 26 charges of murder dropped.

● The five Mafia families who currently operate in New York are the Lucchese, Bonanno, Gambino, Genovese and Colombo.

Sal testified against John Gotti (right), the Mafia's 'Teflon Don'

Sal Polisi: just don't tell him he's a funny guy, OK?

KELLY BROOK

EXCLUSIVE!

Kelly Brook!

The nation's sweetheart in yet another scorching shoot for summer!

KELLY BROOK

nice to be celebrated for who I am!”

Hi Kelly! We're used to seeing pics of you looking amazing, but do you still get surprised when you see yourself in mag shoots?

Hello! I am quite confident, but when I see myself I feel self-conscious the same as anyone. But I'm lucky – I can eat what I want and I don't exercise religiously. I probably drink a bit more alcohol than I did – it's the only thing that gets you through the stress. Ha-ha!

Do you go out partying all the time, or are you pretty chilled?

Ha! When I was 26, I was a bit nuts. I was just wide-eyed at everything. Modelling... live TV... moving to Hollywood... I think I was probably too young for all of it. But now I feel like there's nothing that can phase me. Not in an arrogant way, just that the older you get the more you know yourself, the more comfortable in yourself you become, and the more attractive you become.

How do you keep looking so darn incredible?

Well, I work with Reebok so I keep myself in shape with them. I do pilates too. I'm never sitting still for very long. But with food, I never deprive myself, whatever it is. I've never done a faddy diet. It's not sustainable.

I'm lucky to have a fantastic chef who cooks healthy meals for me and stocks up my fridge, so I have good things to eat rather than ordering a takeaway!

Really? So you never just fancy ordering a Domino's or getting stuck into a doner kebab in front of the telly?

Ha-ha! No. I'd never eat a kebab. That's like eating a rubbish bin in my mind and that'll make you feel rubbish afterwards.

KELLY BROOK

"I don't like the fake look. I'd never have a boob job!"

Good point! How are you settling into life as Keith Lemon's sexy sidekick on Celebrity Juice?

It's been so much fun, actually – we all had a fun time doing that. But the thing with filming – it's never how it seems! I really love Holly Willoughby.

Keith Lemon jokingly says that Holly now has the "second-best boobs" on Celebrity Juice. Are you flattered by that?

Ha-ha! He's convinced he can spark a spiky atmosphere between us, isn't he? But no, there's not one. We get on. This isn't Britain's Got Talent. It's not Amanda Holden – this is Holly! Holly is a lot cooler.

Is there going to be a sequel to Keith Lemon: The Movie?

You never know. Watch this space! I'm not working on anything at the moment. I said to Keith, 'If you're going to make one, then you've got to get on with it. You've got to write a script!'

Would you be tempted to shock the world one day and finally "get it on" with him? No!

Loads of Nuts babes always admit to having a crush on you. Does it feel good to be a sexy role model?

I think it's really nice to be celebrated for who I am. It's not really about me being curvy, it's more about me being someone who understands what works for them and embraces that – and has managed to make a business out of that. I don't like the fake look, I'd never have anything like a boob job.

Do you have a lady crush on anyone yourself?

Lana del Rey is my style crush. Body wise? Halle Berry. She's curvy but toned. And Kim Kardashian's got an incredible body. ▶

KELLY BROOK

“I really love Holly Willoughby!”

Do you model your own bikinis still?

Yes. It's a nice detour from acting. Acting can get a bit tedious. I could never find many that fit and suited my figure. Designing them is something I wanted to do for a long time. I'd turn up at magazine shoots and not like any of the bikinis. You usually take five or six when you go on holiday – they're like sunglasses!

On Celebrity Juice, do you ever cringe and think Keith is going to rip into your personal life?

No, we're doing so many other things. And you've got guests on, so the focus is usually on the guests. All that other stuff, that's what people write about when they've got nothing else to write about!

What was the most awkward thing about playing Keith Lemon's lover in the movie?

Well, there's the scene where Keith and I have been on a few dates and it's the first scene that we... consummate our relationship – or try to – and it doesn't go according to plan. Unfortunately, it has a very premature end.

Who would you say has been the most fun guest you've had on Celebrity Juice?

We had Geri Halliwell on who was brilliant, and she loves to talk. With Paddy McGuinness, there was lots of fun and silly games. Holly and I had to get a straw out of a cup while blindfolded.

Nice one! Thanks for the chat, Kelly. Finally, then, can we expect more cheeky Celebrity Juice frolics from you in the future?

I think so, yeah. With Keith Lemon, it's anything that will get Holly and me kissing or cuddling. Maybe trampolines will be involved in the future! ▶

“Keith Lemon loves anything that gets Holly
and me kissing!”

KELLY BROOK

“Kim Kardashian has an incredible body!” ×

Sherlock

BBC ONE/HD • 8.30pm

This is the modern series' take on famous Holmes yarn The Hound Of The Baskervilles as Sherlock (frowny) and Watson (annoyed) investigate monster attacks on Dartmoor. Turns out a secret Army base is involved, where naughty government white coats have been testing weaponised hallucinogens. But is the hound real? ★★★★

The Mating Game – Natural World Special

BBC TWO/HD • 9pm

They may not do it for fun like humans do, but animals still get jiggy with it. In this special, David Attenborough looks at how a variety of creatures do their best to get their end away.

★★★★

Dredd

SKY MOVIES PREMIERE/HD • 10pm

Criminally overlooked comic-book flick. The plot's route one: Judge Dredd and his trainee sidekick are trapped in a locked-down high rise after investigating a murder, but it becomes a brilliantly tense stand-off between The Law and crime kingpin Ma-Ma (Lena Headey), with unsettlingly gorgeous drug-taking scenes.

Gladiator

ITV/HD • 10.35pm

Never pass up an opportunity to rewatch Russell Crowe's swords 'n' sandals epic of betrayal and revenge in ancient Rome as his done-over general goes postal on the corrupt emperor.

Saturday 20 July

Darts

SKY SPORTS 1/HD • 7pm

Yes! We're off to the Winter Gardens in Blackpool, where the crowds are always boisterous, to see the finest darts players in the world get it on in the matchplay manner. Don't bet against Phil Taylor – he's won the tournament for the last five years and 13 times in the last 19 years in total. Which is pretty good going really.

Micro Monsters With David Attenborough

SKY1/HD • 8pm

More Attenborough for all you Attenborough fans! In the last in the series, he's looking at insects' ability to form huge colonies, which means lots of furry bees, nibbly termites and ants.

Taken

FILM4/HD • 9pm

"I can tell you I don't have money. But what I do have are a very particular set of skills. Skills I have acquired over a very long career. Skills that make me a nightmare for people like you..." Thus speaks Liam Neeson to his daughter's kidnapper, setting up one of the best thrillers of all time. Watch this. Tonight. Or we take your man card back.

Sunday 21 July

Tour De France 2013 Live

ITV4/HD • 4.30pm

The 100th edition of the Tour ends with a special night-time stage in Paris. At the time of writing, Chris Froome looked on course to bring the famous yellow jersey of overall Tour winner back to Blighty for the second year running. Allez les Brits!

Top Gear

BBC TWO/HD • 8pm

We covered it in last week's Nuts, and now's your chance to see what the chaps' Hovervan – a Transit converted into a hovercraft, basically – can do as they take it for a spin down the River Avon. And it turns out to be, er, "eventful". Back on dry land, Hugh Jackman's the Star in the Reasonably Priced Car.

Dexter

FOX/HD • 9pm

Pl Debs (Dexter's sis) continues her desperate spiral as she decides to confess to her ex-police chief's murder in a transport crate. Not good for her, or for serial killer bro Dex. Especially as he's busy trying to track down and end the career of now notorious murderer the Brain Surgeon. Unmissable drama that's killing it in this final series.

DISCOVERY/HD • 10pm

New series featuring various nasties, beginning with a woman in Malaysia who found a lump in her elbow. Turns out a parasite was living in it. Eugh!

Monday 22 July

GI Joe: Retaliation

SKY BOX OFFICE/HD • From 6am

As if the first GI Joe flick wasn't OTT enough, this sequel sees Dwayne "The Rock" Johnson join the cast. A Cobra agent impersonates the US President, and sends an airstrike to take out the Joes. Told you it was silly. Fun enough though. Bruce Willis also stars.

What A Load Of Buzzcocks

BBC TWO • 10pm

Yes, it's a cut-and-paste job, but this series trawling through the highlights of the quiz show – and the music of the various periods – has kept us entertained. The final episode turns to 2008 and memorable appearances from Russell Brand and Noel Fielding.

Sean Lock: Lockipedia Live

COMEDY CENTRAL • 10pm

If you pressed us to name our favourite comedian in the land, we'd probably plump for Sean on account of the fact that he's, well, funnier than everyone else. In this 2010 show he's both hilarious and, being all modern and that, audience-interactive too.

Tuesday 23 July

● New issue of Nuts on sale today!

Luther

BBC ONE/HD • 9pm

Final episode of, to be honest, a slightly uneven season of maverick investigations by the "Lahndahn" copper. Unfairly pursued by internal affairs over crimes he didn't commit, Luther has to go off the radar to catch an unhinged vigilante killer. This, of course, goes boobs up, setting the scene for a predictably fraught finale.

Badults

BBC THREE • 10pm

New sitcom about three pals who made a childhood pact to live together in adulthood... so they are. If that sounds daft, wait till you catch it, as the friends hang out together, get up to mildly amusing antics and raise the occasional laugh in among all the childishness. Not great then, but harmless enough nonetheless.

★★★

Ray Donovan

SKY ATLANTIC/HD • 10pm

The eternally terrific Liev Schreiber shines in the role of Ray – celebrity fixer and problem eraser to the stars of Hollywood. Jon Voight is in fine scenery-chewing form as Ray's unhinged, ex-con dad Mickey, but this week Ray tries to get him sent back to chokey after his surprise release and re-entry into Ray's family life.

Wednesday 24 July

Bayern Munich vs Barcelona

SKY SPORTS 1/HD • 7pm

It's not competitive football time yet, but this friendly will tide us over until the real stuff returns. Barcelona will be out for revenge after being stuffed 7-0 on aggregate in last season's Champions League semi-final. Could be tasty!

Ray Mears' Close Encounters

ITV/HD • 9pm

Ray concludes his trip Down Under to look at the many fierce beasties that dwell there. Here he finds out about the still-living Tasmanian devil, then he finds evidence of the now extinct Tasmanian tiger. Get to the spiders and sharks, Ray!

Love/Hate

CHANNEL 5/HD • 10pm

With a cracking cast (Aidan "Game Of Thrones" Gillen and Misfits stars Robert Sheehan and Ruth Negga) this new four-part Irish drama's well worth checking out. A group of small-time criminals go looking for revenge after a drive-by shooting in Dublin. Fast-moving, violent and gripping from the off, this is our kind of crime drama.

Thursday 25 July

Dynamo: Magician Impossible

WATCH/HD • 9pm

Our favourite magic bloke dazzles locals in South Africa with his trademark mind-melting tricks before doing that "casually walking away and leaving them flabbergasted" thing.

Live At The Electric

BBC THREE/HD • 10pm

Russell Kane was in Nuts the other week confessing to being a serial shagger! This comedy showcase is a wee bit safer, but still funny. We love the bonkers sketches as much as the stand-up bits. This week, he shares what he's learned in Thailand.

★★★

PhoneShop

E4/HD • 10pm

We're not sure which is more excruciating - watching the goons who work in E4's fictional phone shop on this show, or dealing with an actual mobile phone company. Tonight's the first ep of a brand new series for this tidy sitcom. It's not exactly cutting-edge comedy, but it's still a decent enough post-pub watch.

After Shaun Of The Dead and Hot Fuzz, the final part of Edgar Wright's "Cornetto" trilogy sees Simon Pegg and Nick Frost joined by Hobbit fella Martin Freeman, Paddy Considine and Eddie Marsan. They play childhood friends attempting an epic pub crawl against the backdrop of an apocalyptic alien invasion. Slapstick gags and sci-fi silliness bring the laughs. ★★★★

THE FROZEN GROUND
19 July • 15
Nicolas Cage tracks down serial killer John Cusack with the help of Spring Breaker Vanessa Hudgens. ★★★

MUSIC

THE BODY RAMPART

Midnight Mayfair

If you're after a slab of post-hardcore rock give this debut by these LA rockers a whirl. Angsty driving music. ★★★

JAY Z

Magna Carta Holy Grail

It's had monstrous hype but this is pretty so-so, with as many duff tracks as bangers and some slightly rubbish star cameos, too. ★★★

DVD & BLU-RAY

doesn't quite deliver. Bateman's businessman chases a woman (Bridesmaids' Melissa McCarthy) across America after she nicks his identity. The leads are great, but the laughs are too thin on the ground. A bit of a missed opportunity. Shame. ★★★

ROBOT & FRANK

THE WALKING DEAD: 400 DAYS

Most formats

The Walking Dead was one of the breakout hits of 2012. An episodic download game, it kept us rapt over months of content drops, with characters we loved, difficult choices and a tight, great story. So this return to the zombie-filled world of survival, with five, short stories and all new chaps is a fine tide-over till season two, in a couple of months. ★★★★

LIMBO

iPad, iPhone

Superb, atmospheric and challenging puzzle game that was one of Xbox's arcade stars of 2010. It's now available on a touch-screen thing. For £2.99. ★★★★

CALL OF DUTY BLACK OPS 2: VENGEANCE

Nuts road test the brand new 'Million Pound Drop' game!

Fans of The Million Pound Drop, listen!

→ THE LATEST in online games at Nuts Games, "The Million Pound Drop" slot has just landed and we gave it a try. The Million Pound Drop is the online game taking the UK by storm. With a top jackpot of £26,000, we had to try it – we didn't win £26,000, but we tripled our wager. Result!

How to play

CHOOSE YOUR COIN SIZE

- Play from 1p up to £1. Payouts are based on multiples of coin size, so the size of your winnings depends on it.
- The game plays on a fixed 25 lines, so if you choose the 1p coin size it'll cost you 25p a spin. Or, if you feel flush, the £1 coin size will set you back £25 a spin – but it could win you £26,000!

CLICK SPIN TO START

- You win cash by matching symbols along your paylines. The WILD symbol substitutes for all symbols except the Bonus Symbol.

COLLECT CASH ON YOUR TRAPDOORS

- Trapdoors lie beneath each of the five reels. Every Bonus Symbol that appears adds to the trapdoor cash beneath it.
- The amount of cash added is based on your total bet. You can win this money at the end of the Bonus!

BONUS GAME & FREE SPINS!

- Win three or more Bonus Symbols to initiate the bonus game.
- First, choose how you want to redistribute the cash across the trapdoors. Once you're happy with your distribution, press "ready" and the FREE SPINS begin!
- A trapdoor can open during each free spin. When one opens, the cash drops through and creates a whole stack of WILD symbols, which means more cash for you on your free spins!
- The WILD stack stays throughout all your free spins. Your free spins continue until just one trapdoor remains – then you win the cash that's left on the last trap door.

IT SAVES YOUR PROGRESS!

- When you're playing the main game, any cash you've accumulated on the trapdoors will save from session to session, even if you log out and log back in another time.

10 RUDE QUESTIONS!

And a real girl to answer them!

Scarlet

21 Blackpool

1 Where's the strangest place you've had sex?

"When I was on holiday in Australia, me and my boyfriend were on a long drive, on the way to a motel, and couldn't resist temptation. We pulled up in an abandoned farmhouse and... Well, you can probably guess what happened after that!"

2 What's your trademark move in the bedroom?

"After I've had a few of my favourite tipple – Desperados – I tend to get all excited. The music always comes on, the clothes always come off and then the teasing begins. I'm a particularly big fan of teasing!"

3 What turns you on?

"Hmm, there's just so much to choose from, although I have to admit, a big a favourite of mine is fantasising about a really hot girl getting naked with me. Just the thought of that always gets me really excited."

4 What's your favourite position?

"How can I possibly answer this when my favourite book is the Kama Sutra? It's the bible of sex positions! If I had to narrow it down, I'd say

I enjoy any position that allows me to watch in the mirror at the same time."

5 Is it better to give or to receive?

"As the saying goes, it's better to give than to receive, right? Don't get me wrong, I love to receive, too, but fortunately for some, I'm definitely a giver as well as a taker."

6 What one thing would you really like to try but haven't yet?

"To be honest, I'm a very spontaneous girl, so I'm always up for trying new things. I especially like prime outdoor spots – the fear of getting caught never fails to add to the thrill of it!"

7 Have you ever got it on with another girl?

"Yes, several times. I love it! Whenever there's a pool party going on somewhere, before long, I generally find myself in between two girls in the pool, kissing and dancing. I just can't resist it. There's something really sexy about the wet hair and wearing just panties. Don't you agree?"

8 What's your sexy outfit of choice?

"It has to be Catwoman. She's always been a big favourite of mine. She simply oozes sexiness with that black PVC catsuit, the mask and not forgetting the whip!"

9 Ever made a sex tape?

"Well, not that I'm aware of! I wouldn't mind though, as long as it didn't end up in the wrong hands. I'm not ready to be famous just yet. Ha-ha!"

10 What's the rudest thing you've done?

"I can't give away all my secrets just like that! I'm guessing you've got an idea of what I'm like from my other answers, so I'll just let your imagination take you there!"

LADIES CONFESS! TO OUR SECRETARY!

Racy revelations from our female readers!

'I gave him some festival fun'

I WON tickets to a music festival recently and took my fella. We were treated like royalty, with VIP access and free booze. During one act we didn't like, we stayed in the bar. We were soon talking dirty to each other and getting horny, so we slipped off to the loos. We kissed passionately and he sucked my bottom lip. He was rock hard so I pulled his trousers off and played with him with both hands. Then I pushed him down and jumped on him, and when someone walked in, I ordered him not to make a sound as he came. We sneaked out and watched the rest of the show on the biggest high!

Katie Worcestershire

'A shopping surprise'

I'VE MOVED to a new area and didn't waste any time visiting the local bars and shops. One night, I went to the local supermarket dressed up in case I met a hottie... and I did! As I was bending over a freezer, I saw a worker straining for a look. He was cute so I leaned over a little further. I gave him a smile and he walked over and asked if I needed help with my bags. We walked to my car and as we popped the bags in the trunk, I pulled him towards me and started snogging him. I opened the car door and we snuck onto the back seat. Before I knew it, our clothes were coming off. He whipped out a condom, slid it on in seconds and I was soon riding him like a horse. It wasn't long before we both came and I started wishing I'd moved there much earlier!

Amanda Manchester

'She heard everything'

MY FELLA and I really got into the TV show The Voice, and we decided to make a night of it for the final. We bought a takeaway and got naked in front of the box. While he was clearing the food away, my sister rang. He came back into the room minus his clothes and I tried not to laugh down the phone. After a while, he tried to distract me by kissing my breasts. After a few minutes I told her I had to go. As soon as I dropped the phone we were at it, and he took me right there on the sofa. An hour later, she called me back, laughing. It turns out I didn't press "end" and she'd heard us having sex!

'Neighbour got a treat'

I WAS doing the washing up in nothing but my dressing gown when my boyfriend surprised me in the kitchen. He came in and, spinning me round, lifted me up to the edge of the sink and buried his head between my legs as I grasped onto the sides. As I was moaning with desire, his phone rang and his boss called him out to an emergency incident. He gave me a quick snog and a grope and off he went. I was left to pleasure myself on the sofa, naked breasts wobbling up and down. When I opened my eyes, I noticed my neighbour at his loft window, hiding supposedly out of sight. I decided to give him a bit of a show! It'll be interesting to see what happens next time I bump into him on the street.

All you need to know about Chris Froome!

10 facts about the fella out to smash the Tour de France!

→ BRITS USED to dream of producing just one Tour de France winner. This year, we might get our second in a row, as Chris Froome tries to match Sir Bradley Wiggins' 2012 win. But who is he? Nuts tells all!

● The Tour de France is on ITV4 until 21 July.

Chris acted as Bradley Wiggins' "domestique" during his 2012 Tour de France victory. A domestique (it means "servant" in French) serves the team leader, namely Wiggins, by providing him with food and water from team cars, shielding him from opponents and the wind, and even giving up his bicycle to him in the event of the leader damaging his own.

2

Technically, in 2012 Froome was what is known as a "super-domestique", meaning that he would attempt to stay with his team leader (in this case, Brad Wiggins) for as long as possible. As a result, Froome not only won an individual stage of the race himself, he also ended up finishing the whole race in second position!

Wiggins seemed to be a little bit less pleased with Froome's 2012 stage seven win than Froome himself. "I told Chris to save a bit with 1.5km left," he said later. "I was shouting at him. He's got his stage win now and that's good, since he's going to be working for me in the next two weeks." Sir, yes, sir!

3 4

Although Mark Cavendish won the sprint competition (green jersey) in 2011, Froome and Wiggo were the first Brits to finish in the podium places in the overall competition (yellow jersey) in the 109-year history of the Tour de France.

5

Since late 2010, Chris has repeatedly suffered from the parasitic disease schistosomiasis, also known as "snail fever". It is caused by flatworm larvae entering through the skin and maturing within organ tissue. The symptoms include diarrhoea, fever and genital sores. So if Mr Froome looks uncomfortable while he's racing, you know why!

He was disqualified from the 2010 Giro D'Italia because at one point he held onto a motorbike. Naughty!

7

In 2012, Froome needed stitches in his face after crashing into and injuring a 72-year-old bystander while training in Italy. He also hit a marshal in his first European race in 2006. "He wasn't impressed," noted Chris. And just look at his knackered knees (left)!

8

He is actually from Kenya, and credits his riding ability to being born at altitude and cycling at altitude. There is a downside, though – it was through drinking contaminated water in his homeland that he contracted the aforementioned flatworm parasites.

9

Chris was once menaced by a hippopotamus in Kenya. "I was fishing one day and a hippo came out of the river and chased me up an embankment," he explains. "To me, it's just a funny story. To most people in Europe, it seems rather foreign."

10

He does party tricks with flies. During a Team Sky dinner, he demonstrated how to drown a bluebottle and then revive it. "We held it underwater until it wasn't moving, pulled it out, put some salt on it and it flew off," he says. "The salt draws out all the water, you see..."

It's naive to expect loyalty!

It's the nature of top players to want to move on and up

→ THE LAST week has seen Luis Suarez agitating for a move from Liverpool and Christian Benteke handing in a transfer request at Aston Villa, causing the masses to question their loyalty. It's always difficult for players in these situations, as indeed it is for managers, but faced with the chance of joining clubs who are playing Champions League football, anyone's head is going to turn by that. Obviously, agents have a part to play in the whole process. I'm not blaming them as such, but any agent will look at what their player is earning and know that they could double it if they move. That's how it is with football.

OK, you could argue that these two players should show some loyalty. Benteke wouldn't be being courted by so many clubs if Villa hadn't given him a platform on which to shine, and Luis Suarez has well and truly put Liverpool through the wringer. But we all know that he should be playing in the Champions League. He owes Liverpool a damn sight more than Benteke owes Aston Villa, though, because without Benteke's goals, Aston Villa would now be a Championship club.

"I will crush you with my gigantic hands!"

Schwarzer's got the swansong he deserves!

I'M SO delighted that Mark Schwarzer has been given the chance to wind up his career with a season at Chelsea. I first saw him when Phil Neal brought a team of youngsters up to Bradford for a friendly when I was manager there. Mark was fantastic that night, but Phil couldn't get the board to sign him because they took the view that Phil was just minding the team until a new permanent manager arrived.

Long story short, Bradford stepped in. Mark came for a few months and was brilliant, so I tipped off my mate Steve Gibson at Middlesbrough about him. The rest is history – he was a fantastic servant for Boro, he's been a fantastic servant for Fulham and he'll be fantastic as Petr Cech's number two. He'll get a few games due to Chelsea's heavy fixture-load, and he won't let them down.

Paolo Di Canio's sensible Sunderland spending spree!

SOME MANAGERS may have been a bit slow to start their summer spending, but Sunderland gaffer Paolo di Canio certainly isn't one of them – he's bringing in new players left, right and centre! And he has the right to – he kept the Black Cats up last season, which was his mission, and now it's time for him to improve them as he sees fit.

People have often been quick to be sceptical about Paolo because of all the controversy he has a habit of attracting to himself, but he has achieved everything that has been asked of him in his managerial jobs. He knows the game, and players generally like working for characters, even if their quirks can sometimes drive you mad.

I think he knows that the addition of a few quality players to his Sunderland squad will give them a comfortable season – and he has already brought in five new players in July, including striker Jozy Altidore from AZ Alkmaar. Maybe Sunderland could even "do a Swansea" in the 2013/14 campaign!

ASK KAMMY!

"What's the best goal you ever scored?"

TOM via Twitter

I managed a couple of 35-yard screamers in my time. One was for Brentford against Wigan, absolutely donkey's years ago, and I scored one for Swindon against Bristol City that won that year's Goal Of The Season award.

"What's the most bizarre pre-match ritual you've seen?"

STEVE via Twitter

I've not come across anything too bizarre beyond the usual superstitions of putting your boots on last, touching the club sign on the way out of the dressing room, stuff like that. But when I was at Leeds, our striker Carl Shutt used to get so worked up before a game that he'd throw up!

"Who cuts your hair?"

LEON via Twitter

Ha-ha! Good question. It used to be a place called Blades in Wakefield, but now I go to a new place in the Westgate Centre whose name, I must confess, evades me. Whoever does it, I make it clear to them that if they mess it up, there's going to be hell to pay!

They scored 79 goals, but it was no fun at all for the players!

TWO NIGERIAN league teams have been suspended after their matches ended with 79-0 and 67-0 victories – both teams apparently needed to improve their goal difference, so mission accomplished there!

Loads of people on Twitter were saying they wish I'd been commentating on the games – quite frankly, I'd have been having more fun than the players, I can't imagine it was fun for the team throwing the match, or the team walking the ball into the net 79 times. It's funny, but also a bit sad.

WHO ARE YA!?

Premier League ahoy? Footy expert Gabriele Marcotti on this week's transfer talk!

£17M

NAME: PAULINHO SIGNED FROM: CORINTHIANS NEW CLUB: SPURS

"A late bloomer who nearly went off the rails. At 18 he had the ill-conceived idea of swapping Rio de Janeiro for Vilnius in Lithuania, and then Lodz in Poland. He never made a breakthrough in Europe and returned to Brazil where, after a year, his career took off following a move to Corinthians. A strong, box-to-box presence with an eye for goal, he's the lynchpin of Brazil's midfield."

UNDISC.

NAME: JOZY ALTIDORE SIGNED FROM: AZ ALKMAAR
NEW CLUB: SUNDERLAND

"You may remember him as the striker who notched just one goal in 28 games for Phil Brown's Hull a few years back. Well, forget about that guy. Three years on, Altidore has blossomed as a powerful central striker, capable of bagging 51 goals in two seasons of Dutch football at AZ Alkmaar. At 23, he's living up to his potential and guarantees 100 per cent effort. He's also a clever footballer."

£8M

NAME: MARCO VAN GINKEL SIGNED FROM: VITESSE ARNHEM
NEW CLUB: CHELSEA

"This 20-year-old midfielder sets pulses racing and not just because he looks a bit like Justin Bieber. Van Ginkel's the type of midfielder scouts love. He's a gifted passer with good height (6ft 1) and temperament, as evidenced by his scything tackles and engine. He's been a regular in the Vitesse first team since 18 which means he already has more experience than most guys his age."

£12M

NAME: WILFRIED BONY SIGNED FROM: VITESSE ARNHEM
NEW CLUB: SWANSEA CITY

"One that got away for Liverpool, where he was on trial as an 18-year-old. A strong, mobile centre-forward, he enjoyed a breakout season last year at Vitesse Arnhem, scoring 37 goals in all competitions, and the impression is he's learned to be more calm when finishing. He's been compared to Didier Drogba and, while he's not as physically imposing, he brings similar energy."
